YOUR LENDER OPTIONS

When choosing a lender for your student loan(s), you are entitled to borrow from any lender that participates in the Federal Family Education Loan (FFEL) Program.

The Gemological Institute of America's list of eligible lenders below is for your consideration. These lenders have demonstrated their ability to meet selection criteria established by GIA. In selecting these lenders we gathered information about such things as loan fees, borrower benefits, and services and have selected the lenders that offer the best of these factors to our families. You have the right to choose any participating FFELP lender. If you choose a lender not indicated on this list, please contact the GIA Financial Aid Office for further instructions.

Be sure to review each lender's loan program and choose one that fits your borrowing needs. Some factors to consider may be the following.

- Prior borrowing: Using one lender means making one payment.
- Loan fees: Some lenders charge lower fees.
- Repayment incentives: Lenders may offer repayment options and lower your interest rate as an incentive.
- E-signature capability: This capability may speed up the loan application process.

AFTER SELECTING A LENDER, WRITE THE LENDER'S NAME AND CODE ON THE FIRST PAGE OF THIS APPLICATION.

STAFFORD LOANS

Stafford loans are the most common source of student loan funds. There are two types of Stafford loans:

SUBSIDIZED - THE GOVERNMENT PAYS THE INTEREST WHILE YOU ARE IN SCHOOL

UNSUBSIDIZED - YOU ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR PAYING ALL THE INTEREST

PRIVATE LOANS

If you have exhausted all other financial aid options (scholarships, grants, federal loans, etc.) and still need money for college you may apply for a private loan. Private loans are designed to help pay for college expenses that are not covered by federal loan programs or other financial aid. These loans are generally based on your credit rather than financial need. If you are interested in applying for a private loan, consult with GIA's Office of Student Financial Assistance first.

There are no exact criteria to follow when shopping for a private loan. The choice should ultimately be based on your own personal needs and level of comfort with a particular lender. Lenders offer a variety of loans with specific terms, conditions and benefits that will need to be evaluated on an individual basis. The following tips may help you select a private loan.

ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS:

Because the federal government does not guarantee private loans, most require a creditworthy applicant and/or co-signer. Creditworthiness includes good credit history and a satisfactory debt-to-income ratio. Check online at www.annualcreditreport.com to find out information about your credit history. Private loan applicants may also be required to provide recent paycheck stubs and a federal income tax return.

INTEREST RATES:

Most private loans have variable interest rates. Determine how often the interest rate is adjusted, how it is calculated, what the average has been over the past year, and whether there is a cap on the interest rate.

FEES:

Most private loans have fees that are deducted from the amount of money you borrow. Find out how much the fees are and when they are deducted.

REPAYMENT:

Determine the repayment terms including monthly payments, repayment period, and conditions for deferment. Keep in mind that deferment of interest will result in capitalization (interest will be added to the principal), which results in a higher overall cost of borrowing.

AMOUNT:

Some private loans have maximum limits, while others allow you to borrow up to your total cost of attending school.
